A little bit about Jamie...

Jamie came to the centre after her previous owner tied her to the gates one morning. Jamie is a shy girl when meeting new people so adopters must be willing to come to the centre for a few meets to build up a bond with Jamie. Once she knows you she is a really lovely and sweet natured girl, she just needs stability, and someone she can trust. Jamie is an intelligent dog and has been undergoing lots of training while at the centre getting her ready to find herself a new home. She has excelled in her training and has built up a very close bond with different members of staff who have worked hard with Jamie. Along with our behaviourist we now feel she is ready to find her new family. Jamie will need experienced owners who are willing to carry on with her training, unfortunately Jamie is not suitable for first time dog owners. Adopters will need to meet with the centres behaviourist before adoption to give her the best chance of settling in with her new family. Jamie really is a fantastic dog who has overcome so much in her short life, she has so much potential and so much to offer. Jamie will need to be the only pet in an adult only home.
