A little bit about Patrick...

Patrick is a great guy who came to us via a local vet after he had been living his life as a street cat, unwanted and unloved. Sadly he has not been treated too kindly by humans and this has left him quite nervous around people at the moment, he has improved greatly since he was first rescued off the street and he is slowly learning to trust. Patrick will need adopters who will be kind and patient with him and help him overcome his insecurities. Street cats really do have a tough life and Patrick really does deserve to be in a loving home where he will become a cherished member of the family. Adopters will need to have a spare room that they can dedicate to Patrick until he has gained in confidence and settled in to his new environment. Once he has settled down we believe he will make a fantastic and loyal best friend. Patrick will need an adult only home.
