A little bit about Morris...

Morris is a great dog who came to us via The Dog Warden after he was found straying in terrible condition, poor lad was ever so thin and totally worn out. He was in desperate need of help and thankfully he was found just in time and taken to a place of safety. He is now fully recovered, fit and healthy and ready to find a home of his very own. Morris is a happy, energetic and playful lad who is always up for a walk or run around our compound. He is a real character who can always make you smile no matter what. He loves to live life to the max, making the most of what this world has to offer. He can be a little shy when meeting new people but it really doesn't take him long at all to come around. Morris will need adopters who are willing to give him the time he needs to adjust to living in a home environment, adopters who will be at home most of the time. Morris has so much potential to make the most wonderful addition to the family. Morris is super sociable with other dogs although can sometimes be a little over excitable. He can live with a compatible dog after a successful introduction at the centre. He could live with children aged 12 years and over.

My personality...

I know how to sit (and lots of other commands too!)

I can be left alone for short periods

I could live with children of primary school age

I'm always on the go

I may be able to live with another dog

I need to learn how to play
