A little bit about Mia...

Mia came into our care via an inspector after her needs were not being met. Following lengthy legal proceedings, she is finally ready to move forward and find a loving forever home. She is a fantastic girl with a brilliant character and has come on in leaps and bounds since arriving at the centre. Mia missed out on a lot during her early life, but we've been helping her build her confidence and showing her what a happy, secure life can look like. Mia is an active dog who loves being out and about. She enjoys her walks and would suit an adopter with an energetic lifestyle who can take her on plenty of fun and interesting adventures. She absolutely loves travelling in the car, so she'd be more than happy to join you on outings. She would also benefit from owners who are happy to take her to quieter walking areas while she settles in, builds a bond, and learns to trust her new family. Mia will need someone who is at home for most of the day while she gets used to living in a home environment. She is incredibly affectionate, loyal, and eager to please. She has been taking part in training classes, which she thoroughly enjoys, and she thrives when given the chance to learn. Mia will need owners who are physically able to handle a strong, enthusiastic German Shepherd and who can continue to support her training. Mia must be the only dog in the home. She can be reactive towards unfamiliar dogs, so her new family will need to be confident and willing to help her manage this. She could live with children aged 13 and over. Despite everything she has been through, Mia has remained remarkably resilient. She truly deserves the chance to show just what an incredible dog she is. In the right home, she will make the most loving and devoted companion.
