A little bit about Kiera & Poppy...

Kiera and Poppy came to the centre via an inspector after they were rescued from a multi cat household. They are very shy little girls who will need a quiet and patient adopter who will give them the time they need to settle and overcome their insecurities. Once they have settled and gained some confidence they are really sweet girls who will slowly come out for a fuss, it really is lovely when you hear them purr for the first time. They will need adopters who have a spare room they can dedicate to them while they adjust to their new home and surroundings. Once they are settled and gained their confidence we are sure they will make the most wonderful pets, they really do just need a chance with a family who will love and cherish them. They will need to be homed together, be permanent house cats in an adult only home.
