A little bit about Elphaba...

Elphaba is a lovely girl who came to the centre via an inspector after her needs were not getting met. She is a very happy go lucky kind of dog who finds everything very exciting. She has sadly missed out on so much in her short little life and has not really had much guidance and training. She is very keen to learn new things and is an intelligent girl, she can sometimes get a little over excited so her new family will need to help her with some basic training classes. Elphaba will need adopters who are at home most of the time just while she settles and adjusts to family life. She is such a friendly and loving little girl who has so much potential to be the most wonderful family pet. She will need an active family who will take her on nice long walks and give her the exercise and mental stimulation she needs. Elphaba is sociable with other dogs and can live with another compatible dog after a successful introduction at the centre, if she lives with another dog they will need to be as active and playful as her. She is suitable to live with children aged 10 years and over.

My personality...

You'll need to take me to training classes

I need teaching that it's ok to be alone

I could live with children of secondary school age

I'm always on the go

I may be able to live with another dog

I love food and treats
