A little bit about Finn...

Finn came to the centre via the local Stray Dog Service. Finn is a very nice little dog, he is very friendly and loves to say hello as soon as he sees you. He does like to jump up a lot and be a little clingy to his people so he will need adopters who help him with this. Finn is very high energy and loves to run around and have fun, he loves to have zoomies and burn off all his energy. He will need active owners to match his activity levels, he will need a family who will take him on long, exciting and interesting adventures. Finn is most definitely not for a quiet lifestyle, he is little pocket rocket who wants to live life to the max and have fun. Finn's new family will need to be at home with him most of the time and teach him it is ok to be on your own from time to time, he is just a little insecure but learns ever so quickly. Finn is very sociable with other dogs but can sometimes be a little over exuberant when introducing himself which some other dogs find overbearing so his family will need to help him with this. Finn will make his family complete and be the best friend you could wish for. Finn could live with a compatible dog after a successful meet at the centre, the dog would need to match his activity levels and he could live with children aged 10 years and over.

My personality...

I walk nicely on a lead

I need teaching that it's ok to be alone

I could live with children of secondary school age

I'm always on the go

I may be able to live with another dog

I love fuss and attention
