A little bit about Champers...

Champers is a sweet boy who is struggling to adjust to life in a cattery environment, he is quite overwhelmed by everything. He spends most of his time hiding under his blanket but will come out for a fuss after a few minutes, he is quite a shy and nervous boy who will need patient and understanding adopters who will help him settle in to a new home. He does find new things quite stressful but he is easy to calm and get him to trust you. Champers came to the centre very underweight and is slowly starting to gain weight but still has a way to go, he mainly eats when it is quiet so it is taking a while to get the weight on him. He has had bloods done and there is nothing wrong with him medically so we just need to find him a loving new home. He has had a pretty tough life before he came here so we would love to find him a family of his own who will love and cherish him and help him overcome all his fears and realise life can be great. He will need a family who have a spare room for him to settle in and feel safe before giving him the run of the house. He will need to remain inside the house much longer than you would normally keep a new cat for so adopters will need to be prepared to keep him in for as long as needed. He will make a great pet and fabulous addition to a lucky family. Champers will need to be the only pet in an adult only home.
